THIBET PROBLEM TROUBLES CHINA

Dalai Lama and Small Retinue Arrive at Chinese City of Ting Chow

QUESTION OF SUCCESSION

China Scheming to Obtain Better Control of Thibet and Mongolia

Pekin, Sept. 28.—The Dalai Lama of Thibet, accompanied by a retinue of eight attendants, arrived this afternoon at Ting Chow, a city in Chihli province, about fifty miles southwest of Pao Ting Fu. A third attendant was met him at Pao Ting Fu, and he was received in a royal manner by a large number of imperial as well as Pekin officials, who journeyed out from the capital for the purpose. He was escorted to the yellow temple, where he had made his headquarters. His route of march to this building, a distance of four miles, was lined by crowds of Chinese who had gathered to honor him.

The roadway had been covered with yellow sand, as is done when the Emperor travels abroad—yellow is the Imperial color in China—and an elaborate programme of Imperial entertainments has been prepared. This includes the ceremony of "kow-towing" to the Emperor, but it is believed that the Lama will refuse to perform this function.

During their years of wandering the attendants of the Dalai Lama have become thoroughly demoralized. They have lived at the expense of the local authorities, and their demands have been limited only by the ability of the officials to produce what they want. They are a wild, disorderly, unkempt crowd, giving no appearance of holliness.

The most important problem brought out by the absence of the Dalai Lama from L'Hassa, he having left the holy city because the presence of Colonel Younghusband's force had desecrated it, is that of the Lamal's succession. China's efforts for four years to get from the Lama what she wanted have proved unavailing, and she has now embarked on a course of religious intrigue with the Tafti Lama, the grand lama who rules at L'Hassa during the absence of the Dalai Lama, and claims to be the spiritual leader of Thibet and Mongolia, and it is believed here, in view of the recalcitrant attitude of the Dalai Lama that China will have the Tafti Lama come to Pekin.

The activities already displayed by the foragers and procurers of the Dalai Lama forecast a repetition of the scandalous proceedings that were witnessed at Wu Tal Shan, where the Dalai Lama held court for three months last summer. The entire retinue of the Lama has not yet arrived at Ting Chow, but still the local authorities have seen fit to place the policing of the city on a military basis.

Fell From Train.
Winnipeg, Sept. 28.—A young man named Wright, from St. Catharines, Ont., en route to Indian Head, was found dead lying beside the track a few miles east of Port Arthur this morning. His skull was fractured, and he had evidently fallen off the Toronto train.

EARL GREY AT GRAND FORKS

Grand Forks, Sept. 28.—Earl Grey, governor-general of Canada, who has been shooting in the prairie provinces for the past week, is now on his way west. He arrived here this afternoon by the Canadian Pacific and will leave this evening for Keremeon and the Shuswap country via the Great Northern, his car being transferred to the latter road at this point. While in the city, Earl Grey visited the Granby smelter and other points of interest in the immediate vicinity, the time at his disposal being limited.

OFFENDERS SENTENCED.

Rogers, Sept. 28.—Three sentences were handed out in court this morning. Two housebreakers were again given six months each, and a lad convicted of indecent assault was given a similar sentence. Robert McEwan, aged 19, convicted three times in less than four years, was sentenced to six months at Prince Albert for assault. The judge said that but for the age of the prisoner he would be liable in giving a flogging. Two Russians named Matelke and Jostenchen, convicted of housebreaking, were given only six months each, because it was their first offense.

WELCOME RAINFALLS IN EASTERN COUNTRY

Long Drought at Last Broken
—Forest Fires Are Extinguished

Port Arthur, Ont., Sept. 28.—The heavy rain which commenced on Saturday afternoon continued all night and all day Sunday intermittently, putting an end to the forest fires in this district, and an end to the six weeks' drought.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—A drop of more than 30 degrees in temperature occurred during last night, following a storm of wind and rain. At 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the mercury stood at 80 degrees. In the evening at 8 o'clock, it dropped to 59 degrees. Early this morning it stood at 47 degrees.

Washington, Sept. 28.—The breaking of the prolonged drought throughout the country is announced by the weather bureau today. Rain has fallen generally in the United States, and forecaster Garrott, of the weather bureau, announced early today that it would continue today and tomorrow throughout the eastern states, followed by clear and decidedly cooler weather. The rains now prevailing in the territory east of the Mississippi river started in the far west several days ago.

Montreal, Sept. 28.—A heavy rain which started at 6 o'clock this afternoon bids fair to stop drought and put out forest fires. Smoke cleared off the rivers this morning and navigation was soon resumed, many vessels arriving in port and others which have been detained since Friday departing.

Mr. COWAN'S RETURN

Vancouver Conservatives Will Tender Candidate a Grand Reception on Arrival

Vancouver, Sept. 28.—George H. Cowan, K.C., Conservative candidate, will arrive in the city from his trip to eastern Canada next Thursday evening.

Vancouver leaders of the party are making arrangements for the welcoming of their candidate with a reception which will at once show the enthusiastic support which is being accorded him throughout the riding.

Mr. Cowan will arrive on the C.P.R. evening train and the present plan provides for his being met at the station by all the Conservatives of the city who can make it convenient to be present. Headed by a brass band, a torchlight procession will then be formed, which will pass through the principal downtown streets to the city hall, where a mass meeting will be held. Mr. Cowan will address this meeting, and arrangements are now being made for their speakers. The plans in hand contemplate making the welcome reception one of the most rousing political rallies ever held in the city.

Lake Superior Consolidated.

Toronto, Sept. 28.—The annual report of the Lake Superior Consolidated company for the year ending June 30 shows a net surplus of $1,072,000, an increase of $214,579 over 1907.

Would Return to India

Vancouver, Sept. 28.—It is now the turn of the Hindus themselves to ask for deportation. Several sets of Indians have made application to be sent back to their country on account of sickness and various disabilities, and in some cases because of destitution. The winter is coming on and work is scarce. Most of the Hindus in the vicinity are engaged in contracts for clearing land, but this work will decrease as the rainy weather comes on, so that naturally those unable to work at all are anxious to get under warmer skies.

Chilliwack Tram Line

New Westminster, Sept. 28.—The B.C. Electric Railway company is rushing work on the completion of the first section of the Chilliwack line. On Saturday work was commenced on the trestle by which the electric cars will approach the New Westminster Fraser river bridge from the south side. The trestle will be 1,600 feet in length, giving a very easy grade from the bridge to the main railway line. Two other trestles have to be constructed—one the line to Cloverdale is ready for traffic, one at the gulch west of the Scott road, the other over the Serpentine. The contractors for the work are Messrs. Boyd and Craig.

CHOLERA WORSE IN BIG EMPIRE

Report Sent to Washington By Agent of Marine Hospital Service

CASES IN ST. PETERSBURG

Eight Hospital Attendants Are Down With Disease and Others Frightened

Washington, Sept. 28.—The cholera epidemic in Russia is increasing, says a cablegram to the marine hospital service from a European agent of that bureau today.

St. Petersburg Report

St. Petersburg, Sept. 28.—The cholera continues to decrease. The number of new cases in the municipal hospital for the twenty-four hours ending at noon today was 263, and the deaths 102.

Eight hospital attendants have come down with the disease, and as a result other attendants are in a state of panic. Great difficulty is being encountered in persuading them to return to their posts. Another student of the Pavlovsky military academy died today, and Baroness Von Muller is among the stricken.

Premier Stolypin has written a sharp letter of censure to the mayor of St. Petersburg regarding the conditions in the principal quarters of the city.

The Disease in Manila

Manila, Sept. 28.—For the twenty-four hours ending at 8 o'clock this morning fourteen new cases of cholera and three deaths were reported.

Fleet Reception Put Off

Washington, Sept. 28.—The formal reception of the Atlantic battleship fleet at Manila, except the water parade, has been suspended until early in November, because of the good weather conditions usually prevailing then, according to a cablegram from Governor General Smith at Manila today. Despite the more favorable cholera situation today, the Governor General doubts whether the disease can be eliminated before the fleet arrives there on the westward trip. Accordingly the reception will occur during the month's stay of the fleet there for target practice on the way back from China and Japan.

The Disease in Manila

Manila, Sept. 28.—For the twenty-four hours ending at 8 o'clock this morning fourteen new cases of cholera and three deaths were reported.

As Bosman has come to this country seeking medical attention, he will be allowed under bond to come ashore, and be taken, pending advices from Washington, to the German hospital in this city, accompanied by one servant, but the two wives and three children will not be allowed ashore at all.

Bosman is in urgent need of skillful medical attention and will take advantage of the opportunity given him to undergo treatment while awaiting word of the action taken in his case at Washington.

The decision of the immigration authorities to refer the Bosman matter to Washington was reached only after a careful examination of precedents and rulings in similar cases, of which there are so few on record that it is practically the first time that the particular question had to be answered.

Bosman has been openly living with his two wives for years, and says that this is the first time that his actions have ever been called into question. He is a man of great wealth, and very prominent in his own city, where he is the owner of a great quantity of valuable land. He has planned to make a rather extensive tour of this country after his health had been restored by the skill of American physicians, and it is believed that if he is denied entrance to the country, even as a tourist, on the ground of his belief in and practice in polygamy, he will appeal the case to the highest authority possible.

BANDITS IN RUSSIA SECURE HEAVY BOOTY

Raid Train and Get Money to Amount of More Than $60,000

St. Petersburg, Sept. 28.—A successful train robbery has been executed by a band of thirty men near Vilna, and a large force of police and troops was sent by special train to the scene. The authorities have not as yet captured the robbers or recovered the money stolen which is estimated at between $60,000 and $100,000. The guard on board the train consisted of six men.

The robbers kept up a constant fusillade during the robbery, to intimidate the passengers, a number of whom were wounded by broken glass. None of the passengers were seriously hurt.

Land Seekers

Calgary, Sept. 28.—The Canadian Pacific Irrigation Colonization company have today in the neighborhood of 65 land seekers from the Dakotas, Illinois and Minnesota. One of their agents brought 55 of this number, and said that his party might have just as easily have brought 100.

The scene is at a little Baptist church, within fifty yards of which a "blind tiger," which has been created for months. The services had closed and nearly the entire congregation had emerged from the church when a crowd of drunken men who had visited the "blind tiger" began firing into the worshippers with pistols.

John Bennett, J. W. MacKinney and Edward Thomas were shot down at the church door, falling almost instantly, streams of blood from their wounds flowing down the steps of the little church. The preacher, Rev. Kind, was shot and mortally wounded, falling in the churchyard. Another worshipper named Gibson was also shot down in front of the church, but is not dangerously hurt.

Anthraxis is five miles from a railroad, and has no telephone connections. Jellico officers could not learn the names of any of the men implicated in the shooting.

All the dead and wounded were men of families except Bennett.

Santa Fe Road's Finances

Chicago, Sept. 28.—The annual report of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Co. was made public today by President E. P. Ripley. The total income to June 30, 1908, was $31,289,770. Deducting operating expenses, including taxes, rentals, etc., of $65,031,582 and fixed charges of $12,579,301, the balance remains at $13,678,886. After the payment of dividends, the surplus for the year was $1,895,879.

Hunter and Deer Die

Drain, Ore., Sept. 28.—Lying beside the body of a deer, the death of which bullet and hunting knife had caused a searching party late yesterday found the body of young George Buxton in the coast mountains of Douglas county. Buxton met death in a most unusual way. Having shot the buck he apparently thought it dead and attempted to cut its throat. The animal was only wounded, and jumping up it gored Buxton with its antlers, then after disposing of its enemy lay down near him and died itself. Buxton was aged 24, and belonged

POLE CAREW REPLIES TO HAMAR GREENWOOD

Did Not Ask for War Every Five Years—Wants Non-Partisan Imperial Council

General Sir Reginald Pole-Carew, during his address to the Canadian club a few weeks ago, when speaking of the patriotism shown by the colonists let fall a remark to the effect that if war could only be managed every five years there would be no need to devise methods for the closer binding together of the Empire. The remark was greeted with laughter and cheers, none of the audience taking him to mean that he was advocating a series of wars.

Shortly afterwards Hamar Greenwood, M.P., who had seen a report of the general's speech in the papers, arrived in Victoria and was interviewed, the published report of his remarks apparently indicating that he was under the impression that Sir Reginald had made such a suggestion. Below is printed a letter from the general, written from China, in which he corrects these misconceptions:

R. M. S. Empress of China, August 27, 1903.

Sir.—As I was leaving Victoria last night a copy of the Victoria Daily Times of that date, was put into my hand. In it I find Mr. Hamar Greenwood's comments on the few words I had the honor to speak to the members of the Canadian club on the 23rd inst.

I am flattered that any words of mine should have attracted the notice of so distinguished a gentleman as Mr.

I have the honor to be, sir, your obedient servant,

MORE REGULATIONS FOR CITY'S CANINES

Long Delayed Changes in By-law Finally Passed By Council

A further step was taken by the city council toward regulating the canine population of the city, when at last night's meeting the amendments to Alderman Hall's recent measure, necessitated by the action of the court in declaring the first measure ultra vires, were passed. Hereafter no dog will be permitted to run at large on any street within the fire limits at any time between the hours of 8 o'clock in the morning and 11 o'clock in the evening, and every dog shall be provided with a collar of leather or metal, to which must be affixed the current year's tag, and any failure to so tag the animal will render the owner liable to a fine of not more than $5, and the penalty for allowing dogs to run at large within the fire limits is fixed at not more than $50.

The by-law, of which the above are the principal regulations, was passed without comment. The measure has now been before the council for several weeks, and each member of the council was evidently quite conversant with the provisions of it, and evidently saw no contentious matter in it.

The regulation as to dogs running at large within the fire limits will not be enforced until the beginning of next year, when the new tags will be issued.

That the council is opposed to changes being made in the time for receiving tenders for the last water high-pressure pumps was indicated when the request of J. N. Nilsson company of Winnipeg for an extension of time in order that that concern might receive quotations from Old Country firms, was turned down.

The tenders are to be in on October 5, but the Winnipeg firm asked for further time.

Alderman Fullerton declared that there had been enough trouble over tenders in the past, and in fact, the council had so often changed the terms of tendering that it was getting so that responsible firms were chary about submitting them.

Alderman McKeown believed that some of the tenderers for the pumps would in all likelihood have gone to considerable expense in sending in their tenders, and it would not be fair to them to now extend the time further to accommodate some other firm.

Oppose Proposed Plans

Several property owners on Pemberton road who are averse to the proposed local improvement will on that thoroughfare, have requested the council to make some change in the scheme of improvement. The city intended to grade and macadamize the street from Fort street to Rockland avenue and lay permanent cement walks on both sides.

Some of the owners suggest that as the road is narrow the sidewalk be laid only on the east side of the street from the end of the present cement walk to Rockland avenue, placing only a curb on the west side, while the roadway be macadamized, the surface being treated with tar.

It is also suggested that the city do not consider the laying of boulevards as it would involve the sacrifice of a number of fine trees and any steps taken by the city to remove the trees will be strenuously opposed. The proposition is also made that each of the owners on the west side of the road shall look after the ground in front of their respective properties. To the above suggestions the council gave consideration at the Friday night's meeting of the streets, bridges and sewers committee, and in the meantime the work will be dropped from the list of works which the council passed upon last

Monday evening.

J. Musgrave, agent for the owner of property on Government street, entered a protest against the assessment levied on the property for the new block paving. The owner has been notified that his share of the cost of the new pavement is $382.50, spread over ten pavements.

Mr. Musgrave complains that when the question of the reblocking of Government street was discussed an agreement was entered into between the owners and the city whereby the city was to pay the first four years of the assessment as that was the length of time which the old assessment for the first pavement had to run, and that the owners and city would jointly pay the remaining six years. Mr. Musgrave therefore claims that he should not be called upon to pay anything until the fifth year of the term of the new pavement has arrived.

Mr. Musgrave's complaint was referred to the city solicitor.

Damaged Wall.

The complaint of Mrs. J. H. Mc-

Laughlin, corner of Fernwood road and Pandora avenue, made through her solicitor, J. A. Alkman, that city workmen, in grading Pandora avenue, damaged her stone wall, about fifty feet of which has been practically ruined.

It is also referred to the city solicitor.

Mrs. McLaughlin claims that the street lines were established by Peter Leech,

the then city surveyor, for the purpose of enabling her to erect the wall, and she maintains that the city must now be governed by these lines. She suggests that the city should re-erect the wall and the cost thereof, and she will allow the wall to be set back to the line established by the present city engineer.

Owing to the fact that the work of laying the salt water high-pressure mains is now being done and a sufficient number of valves to be installed with the mains, cannot be borrowed from the water works department owning to the rapid work being done in laying the mains for the water works service, it was decided not to call for tenders, but to get quotations from all the local firms in a position to supply

such valves, and the mayor, purchasing agent and city engineer will consider the bids and let the contract.

The following local improvement works were reported upon by the city engineer, adopted and will be proceeded with: Permanent sidewalk on the east side of Houghton street, between Denman street and Pender street, to cost $712 of which the city's share will be $237; permanent sidewalks on the south side of Collinson street, between Vancouver street and the line of the new street, to cost $1,000;

sidewalks on the south side of Fort street, between Denman street and

the line of the new street, to cost $1,000;

THE FRASER CENTENARY

Today the Exhibition at New Westminster opens, and the occasion will be somewhat unique, because it will be marked by an historical commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of the discovery of the Fraser river by the pioneer, whose name it bears. The story of this discovery has already been told in the Colonist and it would be superfluous to repeat it, but we may say that among the events in the early history of the Northwest Coast none was of more interest or of greater importance. The existence of the Fraser was suspected by Galiano, one of the Spanish navigators, who explored this coast, when he was cruising off its mouth during the summer of 1792. Others also spoke of it but none of the early explorers, as far as we are aware, ever entered the river. In the following year Mackenzie was told by the Indians living near the Peace river that there was a great stream flowing to the south though it did not empty into the ocean. On June 17th, 1795, Mackenzie reached the Fraser, but he supposed its waters to be those of the Columbia, and the map of his travels, which he prepared, discloses that this was his conformed opinion. Indeed, when thirteen years later Fraser reached the river he supposed also that it was the Columbia. It was in 1806 that Fraser set out on the memorable expedition, which has handed down his name to posterity. He spent part of two years in the region through which the Grand Trunk Pacific is about to be built, and in the summer of 1808 set out to follow the Fraser to the sea. He left Fort George about the middle of May. Some doubt has been expressed as to whether or not the intrepid explorer ever reached the sea, but there seems to be abundant evidence that he did. It was a journey of great peril, as those who have gone through the lower canon of the river on the Canadian Pacific can readily understand. Unfortunately these explorers, while great in the field of action, were not experts in the art of relating their deeds, so that we are left to guess at much of their experience in descending rapids, climbing mountain sides, dealing with suspicious Indians and suffering from toil, exposure and privation. It is eminently fitting that the heroic deeds of Fraser should be commemorated in the prosperous city, which stands upon the banks of the river bearing his name. It was a great achievement to follow that river to the sea, and perhaps it can be claimed with truth that it was the chief means whereby any part of the Northwest Coast became British territory.

EXPLANATION NEEDED

Mr. Templeman has on one or two occasions spoken of the patriotic course of the Dominion Government in taking over the responsibility of maintaining the defences at Halifax and Esquimalt, and some of his colleagues have referred to this as an act which demonstrates beyond all question the desire of Canada to bear its share of the Imperial burden. We remember that when the matter was proposed the Colonist heartily endorsed it as a step in the right direction. We also recall that the newspaper, which may be assumed to speak for Mr. Templeman, assured the public that what the Imperial authorities had done would be small in comparison with what the Dominion government was going to do. In the days before the transfer, there were some five hundred or more soldiers at Work Point and elsewhere in this vicinity and the Imperial authorities had brought out two fine guns to be installed on Signal Hill. The people, who regretted the loss that would be occasioned in a business way by the withdrawal of the Imperial forces, were assured that Canadian troops would spend more money and business would be the gainer. Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, came out to see and be seen. He talked informally and pleasantly and said many things that were good to hear. Among them was a statement that the Militia Department was going to complete the fortifications, keep the garrison up to its former strength and generally maintain an establishment here of which Victoria and Canada as a whole would be proud.

What are the facts? The Signal Hill guns remain where the Imperial authorities left them, and the garrison of five hundred and upwards is represented by less than six score men, exclusive of the officers. Neither the officers nor the men will understand that we mean to reflect upon them personally when we say that the force now maintained here is the hollowest kind of a farce. The promise to keep this military station in a state of efficiency has not been kept, except in so far as a premier must be held responsible for the acts of his colleagues. We quote the observations of the Montreal Gazette as to the progress of the Conservative campaign.

The meetings that have welcomed Mr. Borden and his fellow speakers in this province have been notable, not only for the size of the audiences, but for the evident sympathy with the ideas put forth of those who composed them. The Quebec city meeting was a large one. That at Sherbrooke was large beyond expectations. That at Cowansville was in keeping with the others and in some of its features partook of the character of a popular ovation. That at Montreal was large, sympathetic and encouraging to those who in the city and its suburbs will uphold the Opposition cause at the coming election. The four meetings, like those in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, can only be regarded as evidence of a changed feeling among the people, of weariness with the waste and graft the present Liberal administration permits and even favors, and of a popular purpose to bring about a better state of affairs in the national administration. Quebec is evidently in line with the other provinces in desiring a better order at Ottawa. The leaders of the government, as well as others, see this. It is intimated that Sir Wilfrid Laurier has abandoned his intention of going to the West, and will spend the three weeks before the election day in Quebec, seeking to maintain his hold upon the province, and leaving to his colleagues the task of checking in the other parts of the country the drift from his party that is imperilling its future. Evidently there has been a loss of confidence in the government ranks as notable as is the gain in those of the Opposition. It certainly looks as if the much needed change was coming.

Finally we wish to congratulate the people of Victoria. They displayed something like enthusiasm. They might have displayed more, but they did well for a beginning. Next year we expect that they will improve. Especially do we wish to congratulate every one upon their good behavior. There was practically no drunkenness and absolutely no rowdyism. It was a thoroughly Victorian crowd that filled the stand and thronged the enclosures, a crowd that was good natured and bent upon enjoying itself, but never for one moment forgot that every one present had rights that ought to be respected.

Once more we congratulate the management, and add that we look forward to future exhibitions with a confidence that has been the growth of experience.

THE NEW VOTE.

It is estimated that there are a quarter of a million names on the voters' lists this year that were not on it at the last election. If any one could tell how this vote is going to be cast, he would come pretty close to telling the result of the election. New voters have a natural tendency to vote with the Opposition, not necessarily because they think the odds any better than the ins, but because the new voter is very likely to be of the opinion on general principles that there ought to be a change. A good many columns of advice have been printed addressed to these new voters, and they have been assured of the solemnity of the duty devolving upon them in a manner that would be very convincing. If it were not that they see their seniors given to regarding the franchise as not quite as sacred a thing as it really ought to be. We feel like giving them a little advice ourselves. First, we suggest that they should post themselves as to the real facts involved in Canadian politics. Next that they should endeavor to get at the real principles, and next that they should get out and work for the candidates, who appear to them to represent what is best in the political situation as it presents itself today. We lay special stress upon the latter part of the advice, that is the desirability of getting out and working.

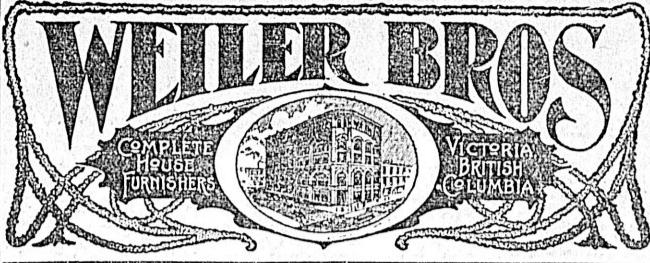

We think that the case, as presented by the Conservatives, ought to commend itself to the new voters in preference to the case presented by the Liberals. These new voters must necessarily ally themselves with one political party or another. It does not follow that they must all decide at the outset whether they will be Conservatives, Liberals or something else. There are enough hide-bound partisans in the country any way. We would like to see the new voters be Canadians first and partisans afterwards. If they will act on this principle and examine the record of the Liberal government, they will be very likely, as Canadian citizens, exercising for the first time their franchise, to employ it to bring about a better state of things than Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues have given us during the past four or five years.

THE GENERAL OUTLOOK.

The Colonist endeavors to give its readers as fair an idea of how the political situation is as is possible from the perusal of the eastern papers. We make allowance for partisan bias, as far as we are able. While it must be admitted that the public meetings addressed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier have been very large, the most friendly critic must concede that he has not said very much at any of them that is calculated to strengthen the waning confidence of the people in his administration. There is a touch of pathos in some of his appeals. They seem to be those of a man, who feels himself dragged down by associates, whose political course he has been unable to control. When he asks to be allowed to finish the Grand Trunk Pacific, a work with which he says he hopes his name will be always associated, he makes the plea of a leader, who is endeavoring by the force of his own personality to offset the disastrous effect of the maladministration, which has flourished during his regime, and the colossal errors committed by himself and his ministers as to the cost of the new railway. His speeches are not those of a man confident of victory, but rather of one who dreads defeat, because of things for which he is not personally responsible, ex-

Successful Operation

The seven-year-old daughter of Mr. John Lang successfully underwent yesterday in St. Joseph's hospital, an operation for appendicitis. The case was serious, as the appendix was perforated, but she will recover.

Will Open Exhibition.

Premier the Hon. Richard McBride left last night for New Westminster, where he will open the Simon Fraser exhibition today. Tomorrow he will also be present at the unveiling of the pioneer's statue.

Winning Numbers in Tombola

The winning numbers in the tombola held by the Art union, for hand painted china painted by Miss Edith Cowper at the exhibition last Saturday, were: 1st prize, E. W. Johnson; 2nd, A. A. Boorman; 3rd, Mrs. T. Brummond; 4th, I. Cumming.

Stricken With Apoplexy

The many friends of Mr. Charles Newton Young, of Duncans, V.I., will be grieved to hear of his serious illness. He was seized with apoplexy on Monday last and was removed to the Chemainus hospital, where slight hopes are given for his recovery.

Native Sons

Post No. 1 of the Native Sons of British Columbia at its meeting at the K. of P. hall tonight will inaugurate a series of continuous progressive whilst tournaments, the first to follow throughout the coming winter.

Building Permits Issued

Building permits have been taken out by T. P. McConnell, who will erect a dwelling on Menzies street to cost $2,300; to William Andrews for a dwelling on Crescent road, to cost $3,000; to S. Wales for a dwelling on Southgate street to cost $300, and to James Smith who will make some alterations to his dwelling on May street.

Big Real Estate Auction.

A big auction of real estate takes place today in Vancouver, when Rankin & Ford of that city will offer for sale the provincial holdings in North Vancouver and also lots 206 and 217 in the New Westminster district. These have been subdivided and are situated on Burrard Inlet. Eight hundred acres on Lulu Island and the Trenant school reserve will also be offered for sale. Those last are farm lands.

For Gravel Plant

The first parts of the plant to be installed at Mount Tolmie by the Linham Sand and Gravel company, arrive from Columbus, Ohio, over the G. N. railway and the V. & S. ferry road yesterday. It is expected that all the machinery will be here this week in which event there will be little further delay in the inauguration of active operations on a large scale at the gravel beds of the northeastern district.

Laying Water Mains.

The work of laying the mains for the last water high-pressure system of fire protection has commenced, and a large gang of men has been employed for the past few days laying the main on Broughton street, and yesterday the work of digging the trench on Government street, from Johnson street to Herald street, was started. These two streets are on the list of streets to be paved and the mains are being laid there first in order that the work of paving can be started as soon as possible.

Dr. Garesche Disqualified.

A. J. Garesche, D. S. S., has been struck off the rolls of licensed dentists in this province, on account of alleged unprofessional conduct as disclosed in the sensational case in which he was involved last spring. The action was taken by the governing body of dentists, under the provisions of the Dental act passed at the last session. A. E. McPhillips appeared for Dr. Garesche, and, it is understood, will appeal to the supreme court. One of the grounds of appeal is understood to be that the conduct complained of took place before the passage of the act.

Indians Returning

On the steamer Princess Victoria on Sunday was a band of 36 Indians and yesterday an equally large contingent of Siwashers arrived by the steamer Chippewa, returning from the hop fields of Kent, Auburn and vicinity, where they have been engaged for some weeks picking hops. The returning Indians camped temporarily on the wharves until a flotilla of canoes and big sailboats was sent from the encampments on the upper harbor and the camp on the Songhees reserve at Hospital point when the homing contingent was added to the natives under canvas across the harbor.

Will Vote on Bylaw Today

The vote on the bylaw to authorize the raising of $150,000 for the purpose of installing a system of surface drainage will take place today, the poll being held at room No. 3, Market building from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. William Seaworff will act as returning officer. Only property owners whose names appear on the assessment roll are entitled to vote. In view of the urgent need of the extension of the present system of surface drainage and the laying of new drains in many parts of the city where the drainage has hitherto been wholly inadequate, the members of the city council are anxious that the measure should pass.

Good Guessers

The winners of the guessing contest in connection with the exhibit of Moore & Whittington at the exhibition were as follows: First, Mrs. Williams of 911 Market street and W. Few of Gorge road, both of whom guessed accurately the weight of the log upon the weight of which many hazarded guesses. Miss M. Campbell of 715 Wilson street, guessed within four ounces of the weight and will get third prize, a meat safe. Mrs. Williams and Mr. Few will draw for first and second prizes, a rocker settee and a garden seat. The weight of the log was 1,365 pounds and both guessed the exact weight.

Veterans to Consider Land Grant

A manager of one of the lines trading to Australasia has given to a Journal of Commerce representative the reasons which have actuated shipping companies to adopt "land" routes for their vessels. The primary one is to prevent captains taking their steamers too far south, thereby risking an encounter with the ice. The secondary object is to insure that any steamer requiring it shall have assistance in the shortest time possible. Any "lame duck" keeping the track is bound to be picked up in a few days by a vessel of one or other of the lines, and in case of fire or other casualty where passengers might possibly have to take to the boats the risk of lives being lost would be greatly minimized.—Shipping World.

SIDE SHOW WAS ONE BLOT ON EXHIBITION

Rev. H. Carson Commends the Victoria Show While Criticizing Some Attractions

"My impressions of the exhibition," was the subject of an address delivered on Sunday night by Rev. Herman Carson, pastor of First Congregational church. While he praised the fair on the whole he had one criticism to make and in drawing attention to it he went to the point in the most forcible manner. The character of some of the side shows, one in particular, was, he thought, the only blot in connection with the finest show that was ever held under the auspices of the B. C. Agricultural association. He had reference to that of the Oriental dancer which was shut down on Saturday afternoon by order of the management. He took the ground that while the officials were not to blame altogether, in this instance, having sold the concessions for all such attractions to an outsider, they should have exercised a closer supervision and that, in future, in the interests of the development of a higher moral tone in the community, they should be more careful as to the selections made by the individual to whom they let the rights aforementioned. The show, Rev. Mr. Carson said, was good. The splendid displays in the agricultural and horticultural departments had illustrated the pro-

Licensed Vintners of Victoria Incorporate to Effect Reforms From Within

The licensed vintners of the city of Victoria, wholesale, retail and both hotel and grocery license-holders were incorporated yesterday under the Industrial Communities act under the corporate name of the Victoria Licensed Vintners' Association. This movement upon which Mr. H. H. Molony, president of the association, and Frank Higgins, its solicitor, have been working for some time, is intended "to maintain the respectability of the members of the association and to assist the authorities in causing the license laws to be respected." Speaking of the action in incorporating yesterday one of the prominent members of the association said it was due to the idea of making reforms from within rather than allowing the action to come from outside sources. The object is to improve the trade and to carry on the business in such a manner as will remove any criticism. One of the rules is that if any member of the association commits any breach of the license laws that action alone causes him to lose his membership. Further, if at any time any member is charged with any infraction of the statutes no funds of the association will be permitted to be used in his behalf. The authorities will be aided in

Gypsies in the East
Nothing identifies a gypsy with certainty except his language. The true gypsy speaks Romany, and nobody but a gypsy ever speaks it. But there are other matters of great moment. In the Orient shoemaking for country-farmers is entirely in the hands of the gypsies, and they make wooden spoons, bowls and such like utensils.

All the common people in Syria, Egypt and parts of Persia are tattooed. The gypsies are the experts, and do most of it, even among the Bedouins. The gypsies are the showmen of the east, where there are no circuses, theatres or concert halls. The gypsies fill their place. If people wish to buy wild animals or snakes in Egypt they go to the gypsies who either have or catch them. Arab gypsies from Syria and Egypt are frequently seen all over Europe. They are easily recognized by their shows, music and tattoo marks. They are found all over the United States and Canada, even in Winnipeg.

Special Possibilities
To make British Columbia one of the foremost provinces in the Dominion—a place it should occupy because of its immeasurable wealth of resources—it was necessary not only that the people should have a scientific knowledge of how to get the best results from the soil, of how to convert the mineral deposits into gold, or how to make the fish which teemed in the majority of the rivers a marketable product but it was also essential that they should possess that character that reverence for the Almighty, which went to manhood and womanhood to its fullest stature. Material affairs should receive attention. It was human to wish to excel and that spirit had been exemplified in the competition promoted by the exhibition, but another and a more important requisite was that the spirit of God should hold sway over the minds and hearts of the mass which forms the backbone of the country.

Orderly Throangs

Special attention was drawn to the fact that there had not been an arrest made throughout the exhibition. His opinion this was largely due to the absence of liquor. There being no liquor available, man had not the means of inflaming passion and, consequently, the immense throangs which had gathered on the grounds had been orderly. That this was the case should be, he adjudged, an encouragement to those who were responsible for the withholding of a license this year. He trusted that in 1909 there would be no such objectionable side shows as that to which he had referred at the outset. That one dark cloud banished and the provincial exhibition of Victoria would become one of the cleanest and generally the finest ever conducted in the west.

Sports Ancient and Modern
In former times quarter-staff and bows stood, in some degree, where cricket and football stand now. Bowls, happily, still survives among the gentler recreations of the greenward, but quarter-staff long since became of merely antiquarian interest.

In Finland everybody lives the simple life in summer time. They camp out on islands, in the forests, and always somewhere near the water, for everybody swims and bathes. Almost all classes sleep and eat at fresco at this time of year, and the town councils in the towns of this progressive and altogether delightful little country provide public fire places where the working classes go in search of fresh air.

But the simple life is by no means dull with the frisky Finns. They combine it with a surprising amount of gaiety. They eat, drink and are very merry in their picturesque little log cabins outside the cities.

When they are tired of bathing and splashing they dance, they sing, they watch fireworks and practice gymnastics; they all become like children and are the very happiest, merriest, most

In Woman's Realm

HERE AND THERE

There is nothing, perhaps, that adds more to the unkempt appearance of Victoria's streets than the long grass that is allowed to border the sidewalks, permanent and wooden, in the residential parts of the town. There is much boulevard work proposed and same undertaken. But it is scarcely possible for the Parks committee before another year to extend this work very far. Could not the householders help this good work along. If everyone determined that these unsightly patches would not border his or her premises the improvement in the appearance of the city would be evident. The parks committee would do some fine and trouble less than the satisfaction which the park appearance of the home would have, would be worth the outlay. A determined effort should be made before next year to make the streets as neat and clean as our gardens are pretty. No one looking at the flowers at the exhibition would believe that Victorians were careless about the appearance of their city. What we all need is more public spirit.

It is hard for those who consider the exercise of the franchise is a privilege to which women are entitled to look with any degree of patience on the antics of the British suffragettes. It really seems as if the followers of Mrs. Pankhurst were bent on demonstrating to the world that there are a great many women who demand votes who are in no sense fit to take part in the earnest work of ruling the country. If the tactics pursued by the suffragettes forward in the very least the cause of women suffrage, it is very certain that the hand they do not only to the cause of women but to womanhood itself will far outweigh any advantage gained. The following cable despatch from London, if true shows to what length of folly political excitement will cause women to go.

The latest suffragette fashion is the wearing of "martyr robes," which consists of a white dress adorned with ribbon of suffragette colors. The "martyr robes" are worn when welcoming prisoners fresh from Holloway jail and when planning onslaughts on the Government. Last week two detachments of prisoners were released. They were greeted by a contingent of fellow workers fifty of whom dragged their chain in place of horses. As the last detachment consisted of Scotch prisoners, special Highland arrangements were made, and bagpipes, white heather and much plaid drapery figured in the procession.

The city of Montreal has appointed twelve school inspectors who will devote their whole time to the work of promoting the health of the children. The number seems large but is not so when we consider the size of the city. In every civilized country the necessity for such inspection is now fully recognized. In our own city the children are, on the whole, exceptionally healthy. Yet there is no teacher who does not know that there are pupils in every classroom who need the help which a wise physician can give. Sometimes a child is suffering from an ailment which affects himself alone, at others he is a source of danger to his classmates, as well as a sufferer from some disease. To help such children is the work of the medical inspector. This should not be forgotten and the parents should give him every assistance in their power. Too often, a child has been hindered for years in his studies because of defective sight or hearing which neither his parents or his teacher had discovered. With an efficient medical inspector this should be impossible. They with the utmost care on the part of teachers it is impossible to prevent the admission of children suffering from the milder forms of infectious disease. It is in such cases that parents most frequently resent the interference of the school authorities. They should, however, remember that it is just as much in the interest of the children suffering from such an ailment, say, as ringworm, that the disease should be discovered and cured, for the sake of the other members of the class. The children will be greatly benefited if parents, teacher and medical inspector work together harmoniously.

The mother of a family of boys must in these days often be puzzled as to what to advise in regard to games. No sensible woman wants to see her boy grow up a weakling. She knows that all outdoor games are good. They strengthen not only the muscles, but the moral nature. There is no place for a passionate, whining or softish lad on the school, cricket or football field. But while this is true of games played for fun or of contests engaged in as tests of strength and skill, it is otherwise when the element of gain comes in. This begins with school trophies and gate money. The boy who finds himself in the centre of an admiring crowd of spectators is too apt to think that play is the series business of life. Such disgraced the game at Westminster on Saturday shows that there are two sides to the question as to whether sport is good for boys or not.

How to Mark Bed Linen.
Sheets and pillow cases are generally bought ready made in these days, but if one can possibly spare the time they can be made much better at home, and in this case the best sets may become pretty fancy work, as hemstitching and making monograms is pleasant work to do, especially on coarse linen sheetings. If the sheets are of linen, the hem should be three inches deep and may be single or double hemstitched, but if they are cotton they should be neatly and firmly hand hemmed or hemmed on the machine.

Pillow cases will wear much better and will slip on easier if they are made an inch larger than the pillow. The hem on the pillow slips should be two inches and a half deep, and of course should be hemstitched to match the sheet. The monogram should be set an inch above the hemstitched hem in the middle of one side of the pillow case and its base should be towards the hem. The position of the monogram for the sheet should be the same as for the pillow slips, an inch above the hem in the middle of the width, with the base nearest to the hem, so that when the top of the sheet is turned over the monogram will be in the correct position for any one standing at the foot of the bed. There may be a delicate running design above the plain hem, and this is usually embroidered solidly in the satin stitch. When a band of this sort is used the monogram is raised above it.

Fall Tailored Gowns.
The fall models for tailored costumes, the first essential of the autumn outfit, are already on view in the smart tailoring establishments; for the demand for such costumes has advanced in season from year to year and now many a woman has ready by the 1st of September a tailored frock with which to meet the first cool days, to supplement the worn and demoralized summer wardrobe, to wear during the season when more elaborate frocks for the autumn and winter are still being debated or are in process of construction.

The models of this kind now on view follow quite closely the late season models in summer stuffs and that, of course, means an insistence upon certain direc-tore details. It is noticed, however, in some authoritative models, or at least in some experimental models emanating from some authoritative sources leaning toward characteristics of the Louis XV period, and this straw in the stream makes one wonder. Narrower shoulders, long close sleeves, ruffles at wrist and throat, big trimmed pockets, all these belong to the Louis XV ideas; and if some

To bring back color when taken out by any acid, make a weak solution of baking soda and water and into this dip the article which is faded; the color will be restored. This is especially effective in the shades of yellow.

Lever's Y-Z (Wise Head) Disinfectant Soap Powder is a boon to any home. It disinfects and cleans at the same time.

In making mayonnaise dressing be sure to have fresh eggs. It is most important. It is better to use an egg beater than a spoon in mixing the condiments and a little lemon juice is not amiss in this dressing. If you wish to have light and fluffy mayonnaise add a cup of whipped cream just before the dressing is sent to the table. The lack of cream is what makes the mayonnaise in most restaurants such an oily and sad affair.

Burns and scalds are more likely to happen in the kitchen than in other parts of the house, so it is well to provide for the special use of the ser-vants a bottle of linseed oil—a mixture of equal parts of linseed oil and lime water—and also a supply of soft linen rag or lint for their special use in case of emergencies. A clean, air-tight tin should be used for storing the bandages, so that they may not get soiled. The linseed oil relieves the pain of burns and scalds at once. The lint should be soaked in it and laid on the wound, to exclude the air, that healing may begin as soon as possible.

The Turkish Woman.

That even the present state of the Turkish woman has much in it that will compare favorably with that of the woman of European nations is the opinion of the correspondent of the London Chronicle, who says:

"Not that the Turkish woman has much to complain of with regard to the laws, for in this respect her position is considerably better than that of her English sister or of the women of any other European country. At marriage she is endowed with a separate estate, over which her husband has no control, and which remains hers even if she is divorced. She has the disposal of any money or possessions that may have been hers before her marriage and as in Turkey daughters inherit from parents equally with their brothers, this is often considerable. She can dispose of her possessions in life and in death as she pleases. She can sue her husband in the law courts and sue by him and custom insists that the marriage settlement shall state a sum to be allowed her for housekeeping expenses and no one has a right to inquire how it is spent. Her husband is obliged to maintain her and her servants according to his means."

"In fact the legal position of the Turkish woman is such a strong one that, though a Turk is allowed four wives, he rarely has more than one, both on account of the expense and also for fear of placing himself at the legal mercy of some male women. He is also most anxious to be considered by the men of other European countries and he is aware that a plurality of wives is a fatal barrier to his ambition in this respect. Monogamy is very surely gaining ground and the harem life is losing its hold on the people. This is especially the case in Constantinople, where the native aristocracy is brought into closer touch with the customs of other races, and there is no doubt that in time it will be a thing of the past.

"We have long been accustomed to look upon the Turk as a sort of blue-beard that it is difficult to realize that in most cases he is a courteous, kindly gentleman, who suffers under great disadvantages, which in many cases he makes heroic efforts to overcome. He treats his wife with affection and respect and does not enter her company without first inquiring whether it is her pleasure to receive him. Should he be on his way to see her and find a pair of shoes placed outside the door of her quarters it is a sign that she has visitors or does not want his society, and he never dreams of intruding. The men of the lower classes are also thoughtful and considerate to their wives and daughters, and the many cases of brutal illtreatment of women and children which disgrace English civilization would be looked upon with horror in Turkey."

Care of Ferns.
There are some women who never seem to understand the wants of growing things. They perform the task of watering ferns and flowers every morning or with some such regularity, and then wonder why the plants wither and their leaves drop off.

Ferns require much more water than most other plants. Once a day is not too often to pay this attention to the Boston family of ferns, but even then there should be no deluge sprayed over them.

When plants begin to look dry, when they appear to wilt or the pots give out a hollow sound when they are tapped, then it is high time that they were given a satisfactory sprinkling of water.

It is said by the same authority that the pot tapping is the safest test of the plants' dryness at this season of the year, for the reason that many plants are apt to wilt in intense heat or in the bright sunshine even though their roots are moist. But the housewife or amateur florist is cautioned about letting the earth get dry. The plants should be watched carefully and intelligently and watered liberally when they are watered at all, instead of being subjected to frequent small sprinklings.

Nothing is more wonderful about that most wonderful event, the Turkish Revolution than the part women are taking in it. For centuries the women of Mahomedan countries have lived a life of utmost seclusion. Now, almost without warning, they have rebelled against the slavery in which they have been kept. What is very strange is that there does not seem to have been any great effort to prevent their taking steps to effect their emancipation. The following account of a mass meeting of women in Constantinople written for a German paper, and published in the Public Opinion is very interesting and shows that after all the women of the Far East do not differ so greatly from their Western sisters.

At four in the afternoon, writes a correspondent of the Tageblatt, I went with a Young Turkey friend and an Italian colleague to Glosstepe (a hill on the east shore of the Bosphorus). It is said that the spirit of Mohammed has blessed this spot with his breath, and comes to it every morning to rejoice and to drink of the crystal spring of Glosstepe.

"And now, in gay and merry groups, laughing and chattering, the ladies of the harem come leaving their luxurious prisons, and rebelling in the fullest liberty. What a strange sight it was! I asked myself what business I, the gürüm, had among these fragrant blossoms of Aliyah, and the reality seemed but a dream and a vision. But no, it was all true, and I was a witness of the great moment when these lovely little women, breaking away from the prejudices and laws of thousands of years, are pulling down the walls of the harem, in order that the women of Turkey might obtain their liberty."

My Italian colleague shared my surprise, while our Young Turkey friend looked at us as if to say, "There now, a new era has begun for Turkish women. You are witnessing the reconstruction of woman's life in Turkey".

The ladies—there were over three hundred—grouped themselves round an improvised platform, which was occupied by the president, Labib-Han-nim, the wife of the physician Rifat Pascha. The president of the advocates of women's rights in Turkey is young and attractive, with a comely face.

"Ich plauderte showed traces of the change from Mohammedan to European dress. Her dress had a waist, and her face was unveiled. On her head was perched a pretty little thing, which, however, could hardly be called a hat.

The lady spoke quietly and distinctly, but her voice shone now and then with emotion. She said, "The light which has risen over our country is to light up our country without distinction of sex.

We women also must receive our rights, for we too have the right to work and earn our living."

BIRDS ARE VERY PLENTIFUL

Exodus of Hunters to Favorite Resorts Expected By Today's Trains

But one day intervenes before the opening of the grouse, pheasant and quail shooting season. Wherefore the hunters rejoice. Shotguns are being taken from racks and burnished, orders are being submitted for ammunition in large quantities, and everywhere those fond of the game foregather the sole topic of conversation is the possibility of good sport. Though the opinions appear to differ as to the resorts most frequented, the districts to which a visit would be likely to yield the most gratifying return, all are one in the belief that the birds are plentiful and that there will be some record bags reported during the first few weeks of October.

Just how many will hit themselves to the wilds tomorrow in order that they may be abroad with the dawn on Thursday is a matter for conjecture. In past years the trains always have been loaded with hundreds of enthusiasts, their paraphernalia and their dogs. That there will be as large a contingent depart there is not the slightest doubt; in fact, there is no danger in predicting that the throng will be practically doubled. Every year that passes develops more disciplines and the last twelve months, it is reported, have been marked by the arrival of many sportsmen from the East, the advent of quite a number of young native sons into full-fledged knights of the shotgun, and the stimulation of enthusiasm among the veterans. Therefore all the old-timers are expected to depart to their favorite haunts in search of the wily game, and their numbers will be augmented by their sons and the newcomers. In a word, a large percentage of Victoria's population will be away after the birds—and all will not be sportsmen in the true sense of the term.

Pot Hunters.

Discussing the situation, a member of the Fish and Game club yesterday expressed the opinion that there would be the usual number of pot hunters among the crowd. The first of the season usually was marked by infractions of the Game act and he understood that the wardens intended exercising exceptional vigilance. They would inspect as many of the bags as possible in order to assure themselves that no hen pheasants were brought to the city, and the deer killed would be just as closely watched for the purpose of bringing to justice any who might deliberately slay fawn. By this means it was hoped that the regulations would be enforced. However, while it was essential that hunters should be made to respect the law, he thought that it was just as necessary that they should be cautioned against firing

DOMINION AMMUNITION

CIVILIAN RIFLEMEN
WILL BE ORGANIZED

Meeting Called for Thursday at City Hall—Many Endorse
Movement

At the city hall on Thursday evening an organization meeting of those who have signified their intention of becoming members of the Civilian Rifle association will be held and, it is expected, there will be a bumper attendance. The move has been mooted for weeks past. Definite action was postponed in order that assurance might be received that the Dominion government would supply the members with the new model of Ross rifle. Such an understanding, it was explained yesterday by H. Munn, one of the principal supporters of the project, has been reached and now no time will be lost in bringing the movement to a definite conclusion. Mr. Munn is confident that the association will begin with a membership of one hundred. "Many of the old timers, the men who are not able to participate in the drill required by the militia are anxious for the opportunity to get out to the range at regular intervals," he said. "And when the proposal was made large numbers gave it their hearty endorsement." Therefore he was of the opinion that there would be many present and that the new association would be launched under auspicious circumstances.

Only two more days before the opening of the grouse, pheasant and quail season. The hunters have waited a month longer for their pleasure than is customary. Many of them have had difficulty in curbing their impatience. Now that the idle period is drawing to a close there is much activity in preparation. That the outgoing trains on Thursday will be thronged there is not the slightest doubt. In fact it is probable that several special cars will have to be requisitioned to accommodate the huntsmen, their accoutrements and their dogs.

Sergeant S. Perry, who won the King's prize at Bisley in 1904, is credited with having established a new record for British Columbia at the Richmond range, Vancouver, recently. The occasion was the first practice of the team which will represent the Sixth Regiment in the International match to be shot with the Second Regiment, National Guard, of Washington, at Seattle on October 10. The ranges fired over were the 500, 600, 800 and 1000 yards. Perry led the field by eight points. He made three consecutive possible at 500, 600 and 800 yards, and incidentally registered 26 consecutive bull's eyes. At the 1000 yard range he made 33 out of a possible 35, thus shooting the four ranges and only dropping four points.

The game was not without its amusing features. The Welshmen of Vancouver occupied seats in the grandstand and were decorated by huge leeks, the national emblem, which filled a delicate aroma over the stand.

When the teams fledged the Vancouver men gave three cheers for their opponents, who responded and then from the grand stand came the strains of the Welsh national anthem, Land of My Fathers. As the best notes rang out there came a shout of 'Wales' and the ball was kicked off.

The Anglo-Welsh team, especially the Welsh members of the fifteen, to the number of eight, were so interested in the singing that they allowed the Vancouver forwards to get clear through them and the ball went over the line. Morgan, the little London Welsh halfback, attempted to kick it dead, but missed and Moffatt, the big Vancouver forward, dropped on it and Vancouver had scored inside of thirty seconds, and when E. Bull converted the crowd went wild with delight, for it seemed as if the home team were going to put up a fight.

"Those reverse woke in the visitors and from the first serum it was seen that the Anglo-Welsh forwards had absolute control of the serum with their 'loose head' formation. They heeled the ball out cleanly and quickly nine times out of ten, and Morgan, the inside half, was like a flash of lightning getting it away to his backs and putting them in motion.

FIELD TRIALS OF
COAST OPEN FRIDAY

Serious of Practical Tests for Sporting Dogs Fixed for Next Month

To the many Victoria fanciers of sporting dogs the announcement that the Pacific Coast Circuit of Field Trials is to be opened at Independence, Oregon, on Friday and that the Oregon trials will be followed by those under the auspices of the Northwest Field club at La Connor, Washington, is of the utmost importance. It is expected that several local canines will be entered while there is not the slightest doubt that quite a number will participate in the annual trials of the British Columbia association which start on the 5th of October at Ladner, B. C.

The Vancouver club have secured the services of Dr. J. M. Meyers of Seattle, to judge the various stakes, and in writing to the secretary of the Field Trial club, that gentleman states that the Mongolian pheasant, in his opinion, is the king of all trial birds, and that the Pacific slope is to become the great trial ground of America. It is well known that the pheasant is a most difficult bird for a dog to handle. They are a bird of extreme wariness, sometimes lying very close, and at others they will tax the patience of the best trained pointer or setter. Dr. Meyers is of the opinion that the young dog or Derby is somewhat handicapped when working on this, as he terms, veteran "dog foot." He therefore takes the position that in this stake he looks for "class" and a little "bird work," but in the all-age dog, or the supposedly thoroughly-trained animal he must show bird sense and head work as well as his heels.

GOTCH AS ACTOR

World's Champion Wrestler Makes Hit
in Vaudeville at New York

Frank Gotch, champion wrestler, has finally gone into vaudeville, and has really made good. Variety, the New York authority on vaudeville, in reviewing Gotch's first appearance, gives him the following rather flattering notice:

"No one expected to find in the champion wrestler of the world an actor, nor did any one probably imagine that important athletic personage, Frank A. Gotch, would invade New York city with a real, genuine comedy sketch, to present his prowess on the mat. Mr. Gotch sprang the surprise, however."

"In his New York vaudeville debut, Mr. Gotch is the centre of a very well and brilliantly written comedy sketch, containing several laughable situations and employing a competent cast."

Gotch himself plays an amateur wrestler and the centre of the Yale team, and the whole is a success.

"It followed that when they lined out on Saturday they were not held in form, and at least seven certain scores were thrown away by faulty passing.

"After the interval they showed something of their real form, and it was a succession of scores with the men streaming through the Vancouver team and even the fullback scoring. The crowd cheered heartily at the pretty work, and it was the most delightful exhibition that Brockton point had yet seen.

"The game was not without its amusing features. The Welshmen of Vancouver occupied seats in the grandstand and were decorated by huge leeks, the national emblem, which filled a delicate aroma over the stand.

Result of Free Coal Contest at the Fair

The lucky persons to name the weight of the block of coal which we had on exhibition at our booth in the main building during the exhibition are:

Mrs. R. E. Knott 1141 Caledonia Ave., and G. Spencer, Farm Fair. Who named the exact weight of 495½ pounds, as weighed at 9 p. m. Saturday evening, after the close of a fair at a Fairbank's Standard Coal Building, Birmingham, Conn., at the fair.

The prize is one ton of coal and the block of coal, and if the above parties will call at our office we will arrange a division.

The following people made very close guesses indeed:—V. Stevens, 496; Mrs. E. Dempster, 496; Aleck Milne, 495; W. A. Turner, 496; R. Pollock, 495; H. Brewster, 496; W. Parsons, 496½; E. T. Lamphie, 495; F. Willis, 495; W. J. Buckley, 495; and over two hundred people guessed the weight between 485 pounds and 500 pounds. Nearly ten thousand people tried to name the weight during the fair.

We would like you to try your next order of coal from us—the famous South Wellington Coal.

KETCHELL TO RETIRE

Middleweight Champion Wants Only
One More Fight—Tired of the Game

Almost as startling as the defeat of Stanley Ketchell by Papke was the announcement made by Ketchell that he would retire after the return match.

"I only want to win this one fight and to get my title back," said Ketchell. "Then I will drop this fight game. I am tired of it already. It's true that I have not been in it long, but I've had enough of it already. I have a little money more than I expected to have at this time—and I think I will settle down to farming."

In spite of this declaration Ketchell will leave San Francisco in a few days to shoot deer. Stanley has been after the antlered monarchs before and is enthusiastic about the prospects. He will be gone five weeks, and figures that the trip will make a new man out of him.

WILL INVADE NEW FIELDS

Japanese Steamship Line to Be Established to Connect With Tehuantepic

NEW N. Y. K. CONNECTION

Service From Port Said to Trieste to Connect With Company's European Line

Japanese shipping companies are planning to improve their services, the Toyo Kisen kaisha arranging to place a line of steamers between Japanese ports and Salina Cruz, to take advantage of the connection with the Atlantic and European markets by way of the Tehuantepic railroad, and the Nippon Yusen kaisha is arranging to invade the Mediterranean with a Japanese line running between Port Said and Trieste or Piume, in Austro-Hungary, under the Japanese flag. The new Pacific line planned by the Toyo Kisen kaisha, which operates a line between Hongkong and San Francisco via Japanese ports and Honolulu, including in its service the big 12,500 tonne oil-burner Tenyo maru and a sister steamer soon to start service, is being arranged, following investigations made by a special representative of the company sent to Mexico. President Diaz has been interviewed by Mr. Arakawa, Japanese minister at City of Mexico, and has expressed himself favorably toward the new service. The line to be operated between Port Said and the Austrian ports is intended as a feeder to the European line of the Nippon Yusen kaisha to link the service with the trading ports of Austro-Hungary and districts reached from them. The European liners of the Japanese shipping company will discharge their freight for shipment to this part of Europe at Port Said, where it will be trans-shipped on the lines running to Trieste. If the venture proves successful it is stated a regular service will ultimately be established direct between Japanese ports and Trieste or Piume.

The Japanese lines are among the most heavily subsidized in the world, and with government aid have a distinct advantage over the other shipping concerns. An agitation is now being carried on in Japan owing to the general retrenchment by the new cabinet to curtail the subsidies, especially the special bounties given to some lines, notably the service to Victoria and Seattle, known as the American and European and Australian lines. The Tokio Asahi has an article in which it urges the government to discontinue the payment of a bounty for these lines. According to the budget for the current fiscal year the total amount of shipping subsidies is estimated at twelve million yen ($6,000,000). Unless the law relating to shipping subsidies is amended the expenditure will steadily go on increasing year after year. As the first step toward the readjustment of finance, it is advisable, says the Tokio paper, that the bounties now paid for the regular lines abroad should be abolished. Fortunately the contracts for subsidizing these lines come to an end at the end of 1909, so that a decision should be taken not to renew the contracts. The government is now paying a certain amount of bounty to the services to Europe, America, and Australia, in order to develop trade with those continents, but the amount of subsidy paid is rather excessive, and a return commensurate with the outlay is not to be obtained. The company concerned may put vessels of an obsolete type on the lines, and however unnecessary or unproductive some of the regular lines may be, the government is bound to pay the stipulated amount of bounty so long as the contracts remain in force. Not only so, but a company which has the advantage of such protection tends to crush the competition of unprotected ships, and is thereby hampering the healthy development of the maritime industry of the country. In such circumstances it is advisable that in the next session the diet should not vote a renewal of the contracts if the matter comes before the houses for approval.

It may be contended, continues the Tokio journal, that the discontinuance of the subsidy on these regular lines will have the effect of atrophying the shipping industry which has been nurtured at the expenditure of so much money. Such, however, will not be the case. Even though the grant of the special bounty be discontinued, the ship-owners can obtain a subsidy under the provisions of the Navigation Encouragement law, though this law also requires amendment. The grant provided under this law is on such a liberal scale that the ship-owners will not suffer from the want of encouragement on the special bounty being abolished. Japan is at present paying 4,300,000 yen ($2,150,000) annually for the maintenance of the three lines mentioned. That a company with a capital of 22,000,000 yen ($11,000,000) can enjoy a government grant of over 5,000,000 yen ($2,500,000) annually is perhaps without a parallel in the world, and is evidently an abuse of the principle of protection. The government should either totally abolish the special bounty, or, if there are circumstances which ne-

NINGCHOW EXPECTED TO ARRIVE TODAY

Blue Funnel Liner Will Bring 1,500 Tons of Freight—Bellerophon's Big Cargo

With 1,500 tons of general freight for Victoria and 150 Chinese to land at this port the Blue Funnel line steamer Ningchow, Capt. Allen, is expected to reach port today and the Japanese steamer Iyo Maru of the Nippon Yusen kaisha, Capt. Thompson, is expected in port tomorrow with 31 Japanese steerage passengers and 180 tons of general freight to land here. The Ningchow is from Liverpool via the Suez canal and ports of the Orient and the Iyo Maru from Hongkong, Shanghai, Moji, Kobe, and Yokohama. The steamer Bellerophon of the Blue Funnel line is expected in port tomorrow and will load more wharf oil at the outer wharf for Glasgow, this being the third load since the steamer reached the Sound. The Bellerophon will have the largest shipment of whale oil sent from this port, taking 5,000 barrels sent to Glasgow by the Pacific Whaling company of this city. Not only will the oil shipment by the Bellerophon be large, but the salmon shipped by this vessel will be considerable. The liner will carry 70,000 cases of salmon, 50,000 being loaded at Victoria and Vancouver and 12,000 at Seattle and 4,000 at Tacoma. Another notable item in the cargo is a steam road roller which is being sent to Manila. The Bellerophon will carry 350 homeward Chinese from this city. At Tacoma temporary repairs are being made to the big freighter having rammed her on arrival. Permanent repairs will be made when the vessel reaches Liverpool.

Notice to mariners is given by the marine department that the electric fog bell on Brotchie ledge cannot be relied upon owing to the electric current being shut off during part of the day and early mornings.

The steam schooner Sybil Marston has been dispatched from San Francisco to the Tyee Whaling company's station at Admiralty Island, Alaska, to take on cargo of whale oil, fertilizer and whale products for the bay city.

LOCAL FIRM TO REPAIR THORDIS

B. C. Marine Railway Co. Secures Work on Norwegian Steamer

The contract for the repairs to the Norwegian steamer Thordis necessary because of her grounding on Sept. 12 off Cape Mudge has been given to the British Columbia Marine railway company of Esquimalt, and work has been commenced in the drydock at Esquimalt to repair the steamer. It will be necessary to replace ten plates in the hull of the injured freighter. Thirteen of her plates will have to be taken out, fished and replaced and fourteen plates will be fitted in place. Fifty-five frames have to be repaired, and many intercostals, angle irons, etc., the work necessitating the employment of a large number of ironworkers. The work will occupy at least three weeks.

When the Thordis sustained the damage she was on the way to Skagway with Capt. Duncan MacKenzie, brother of the head of the Mackenzie Steamship company, charterers of the vessel, on board as pilot. At the time the steamer got off her course Pilot MacKenzie was asleep in his berth. She had been running for the entrance to Seymour narrows when she ran into a thick fog early on the morning of Sept. 12. A premonition of impending evil caused Pilot MacKenzie to awaken and go on the bridge and he immediately knew the vessel was off her course. The engines were stopped and Capt. Jorgenson undertook direction of extricating the steamer from the position in which it was believed she occupied close to shore.

Jutting out from Cape Mudge there is a well known reef of boulders and she was very close to this reef when her engines were stopped. At the time the tide was in its last quarter and the Thordis was castled along towards the entrance to the narrows through the fog. Suddenly she touched.

She struck at 10:30 o'clock in the morning and lay against the rocks till 3:35 o'clock in the afternoon when she easily floated on the first of the flood tide. It was in backing off that the steamer received her injuries through bumping hard on the big boulders. She was found to be making water in her tanks, but it only entered slowly, showing that the plates had been strained at the butts and there were no actual holes torn in the hull. It was therefore decided to continue the trip north and discharge her cargo. Quick time was made on the run and the leaks gave no trouble.

STEAMER BUILT TO CARRY SUBMARINES

Unique Vessel Which Will Carry Under Water Warships to the Far East

The steamer Transporter, a unique vessel built for the Japanese government to carry two submarines to Japan, is preparing to leave Liverpool and is attracting much attention as she lies in the Mersey. The Transporter and the two Japanese submarines have been built by Messrs. Vickers, Sons and Maxim, Ltd., of Barrow. This new type of vessel is a steel craft of about 212 ft. long and some 38 ft. beam. She is fitted with triple expansion engines of 800 horse power indicated, and she steams about nine knots. The engines are placed aft, and with her main deck removed ready to receive the two submarines she presented the appearance for at least two-thirds of her length of a mere shell. The two submarines being of a special type, their transportation on their own bottoms for so long an ocean voyage was deemed too great a risk to be undertaken, and it has been decided by the builders, along with the Japanese admiralty, to ship them on board this specially built craft, the Transporter. The two submarines were towed round from Barrow and at once placed in the Queen's dock adjoining the Graving dock. The exceedingly novel, and at the same time, delicate work of floating them into position was carried out in the following manner. The Transport was submerged and the two submarines admitted into the graving dock and floated into position directly over the specially built cradles on board the Transporter. Then the water was pumped from the dock, and as the water gradually subsided, the submarines fell into their allotted positions in the hold of the steamer. When the Transporter was made watertight again, she was floated and returned to Barrow to be finally fitted out for the long journey to Japan.

MASTER OF ENGLEHORN WRITES OF VOYAGE

Capt. Olsen Says the Well Known Vessel Made a Smart Run to Cork

Capt. Olsen, master of the British bark Englehorn, who has many friends in Victoria, has written regarding a fast passage to Cork from Puget Sound. The Englehorn put into Esquimalt dismasted and was repaired here, proceeding from here to Tacoma to load wheat. The vessel has a reputation as a slow craft. Some notoriously long voyages have been recorded by the Englehorn, notably when she required 233 days to sail from Philadelphia to Fuson, Korea. There was no talk of war when the big ship put to sea, but when she reached Japanese waters she was surrounded by cruisers and transports. Not until her master made port was it known that Russia and Japan were engaged in hostilities.

In the party are representatives of the Chambers of Commerce of San Francisco, Oakland, Los Angeles, San Diego, Seattle and other Coast cities. The personnel is as follows: Robert Dollar and wife, E. W. Dohrmann, Mrs. C. S. Dehrmann, A. C. Blifield and wife, R. B. Hale and wife, E. L. Huet and wife, Dr. K. Pischel and wife, J. T. Fitzgerald and wife, H. W. Treat and wife, J. D. Lowman and wife, John J. Bergin and wife, A. Kendall and wife, Consul-General C. Kolke and wife, Master James Blane, O. M. Clark and wife, Miss Mabel A. Thayer, James B. Stetson and wife, Albert L. Clark, Wallace M. Alexander, William Clayton, Leon Greenbaum, M. Greenbaum, A. P. Griffith, Henry Michaels, Max Schmidt, J. C. Friendly, S. I. Merrill.

102 days to the "line" in the Atlantic, and when but 107 days out the vessel was in latitude 11° north. Then she had adverse winds, which spoilt what might have been a great performance for this big windjammer.

When he arrived home Capt. Olsen completed his first voyage in the Englehorn, having left Hamburg for Seattle in August of last year. After rounding Cape Horn, in November, the big ship was in some terrible weather, during which the fore topmast, fore yards, and head gear were carried away. By the exercise of rare judgment and skilled seamanship, Capt. Olsen managed to clear away the wreckage, make temporary repairs and bring his vessel safely into port. Strange to say, she did the smartest sailing of the passage in the Pacific while minus much of her head gear.

HIGH FENCES IN OAK BAY DISTRICT

Councillor Cites Experience in Condemning Such Divisional Marks

That there shall be no fences over seven feet high constructed on the street lines within the confines of the Oak Bay municipality was the verdict of members of the council of the municipality last night as an outcome of a discussion brought up by a notice of motion made by Councillor Newton. The latter first drew attention to section 63 of the recently enacted Building bylaw. He pointed out that it was practically a fair sample of that in vogue in Victoria, which was meant to apply to the district included in the fire limits of the city. It provided that there should be no fence higher than that stipulated erected anywhere. He did not think that a regulation of the kind was necessary in a district such as Oak Bay and, therefore, proposed that it should be modified to read "on any street."

The proposal met with favor. Still it created some debate. Among those who contributed to the discussion were Councillors Fernie and Noble. The former was the first on the floor. He took up the general question of high fences, their effect on neighboring property, etc. The fact that property was rendered valueless because of these obstructions to the sunlight he had seen exemplified. In his personal experience with his land on Oak Bay avenue, that the warmth was kept away and that the utility of the particular portion affected was nullified, there could not be the slightest doubt, although he had no particular objection to make because he recognized that the neighbor of whom he spoke had been on the scene before he arrived. But he thought all high fences were more or less objectionable.

While Councillor Fernie was speaking there had been side glances which appeared to indicate that there was something behind his words which did not appear on the surface. Soon the explanation was afforded when Councillor Noble outlined his attitude with respect to the high fence question. He commended the resolution made and went on to say that he appreciated the views which had been expressed by his brother councillor so forcibly, the more so, perhaps, as he happened to be the neighbor to whom he alluded (daughter). Then he went on to explain that he had constructed the fence before Councillor Fernie's arrival and that subsequently a series of high greenhouses had been built along the same line but without thought of the effect it would have on the adjoining property.

The only solution, Councillor McGregor thought, would be for Councillor Fernie to build a high fence on the other side, thus obtaining a fairer percentage of the sunshine. (More laughter.)

Finally it was agreed that Councillor Newton's amendment would be adopted and the matter was laid over for the requisite period before taking definite action.

THE PRESENT CAMPAIGN

Enthusiastic meetings of ward workers were held in wards 4, 5, 5a, 6, 6a, and 11 last night. The reports received were most encouraging and there is every indication of an immense majority for Mr. Barnard on Oct. 26.

Many old time Liberals are offering their services towards cleaning out the corrupt Liberal party front office, while the stalwart Tories are working with old-time vigor to bring Victoria back to the position which she held in the days of Sir John A. Macdonald. Every evening this week there are committee meetings in various parts of the city, and on Saturday evening a joint committee of all the chairmen and workers will be held in the Conservative hall, at the corner of Bastion and F. H. Shepherd, the Conservative candidate for Nanaimo, was in the city yesterday.

The time for registering votes for this term expired yesterday.

VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN
IS CONTEMPLATED

F. H. Shepherd, Nanaimo Conservative Nominee, Starts
Tour From Victoria

To prosecute the Dominion election campaign, which has just started, throughout the districts in this vicinity which are included in the Nanaimo constituency is the mission of F. H. Shepherd, the nominee of the Conservative party, who reached here yesterday. In the course of conversation last night Mr. Shepherd stated that the outlook was exceedingly bright. He was confident of carrying a good majority in most of the centres. Though the prospects scarcely could be better from his standpoint he did not intend neglecting any of the somewhat scattered sections which were a part of the district in which he was running. His headquarters would be in Victoria for some days and he would spend his time becoming acquainted with the residents of the southern end of Vancouver Island.

Today, Mr. Shepherd said, he would visit Sidney. Returning he would go to Sooke. In company with H. D. Helmcken, K.C., on the 30th. On the 1st of October it was his intention to make a trip to Metchosin. On the 5th he would speak at a smoker at Esquimalt, which was being arranged by his Conservative friends. In all probability he would deliver addresses on the 6th at the Royal Oaks and on the 7th at Oak Bay.

Returning to Nanaimo Mr. Shephard, it is expected, will be accompanied by Premier McBride, who will speak on the 13th at Ladysmith and on the 14th at Nanaimo.

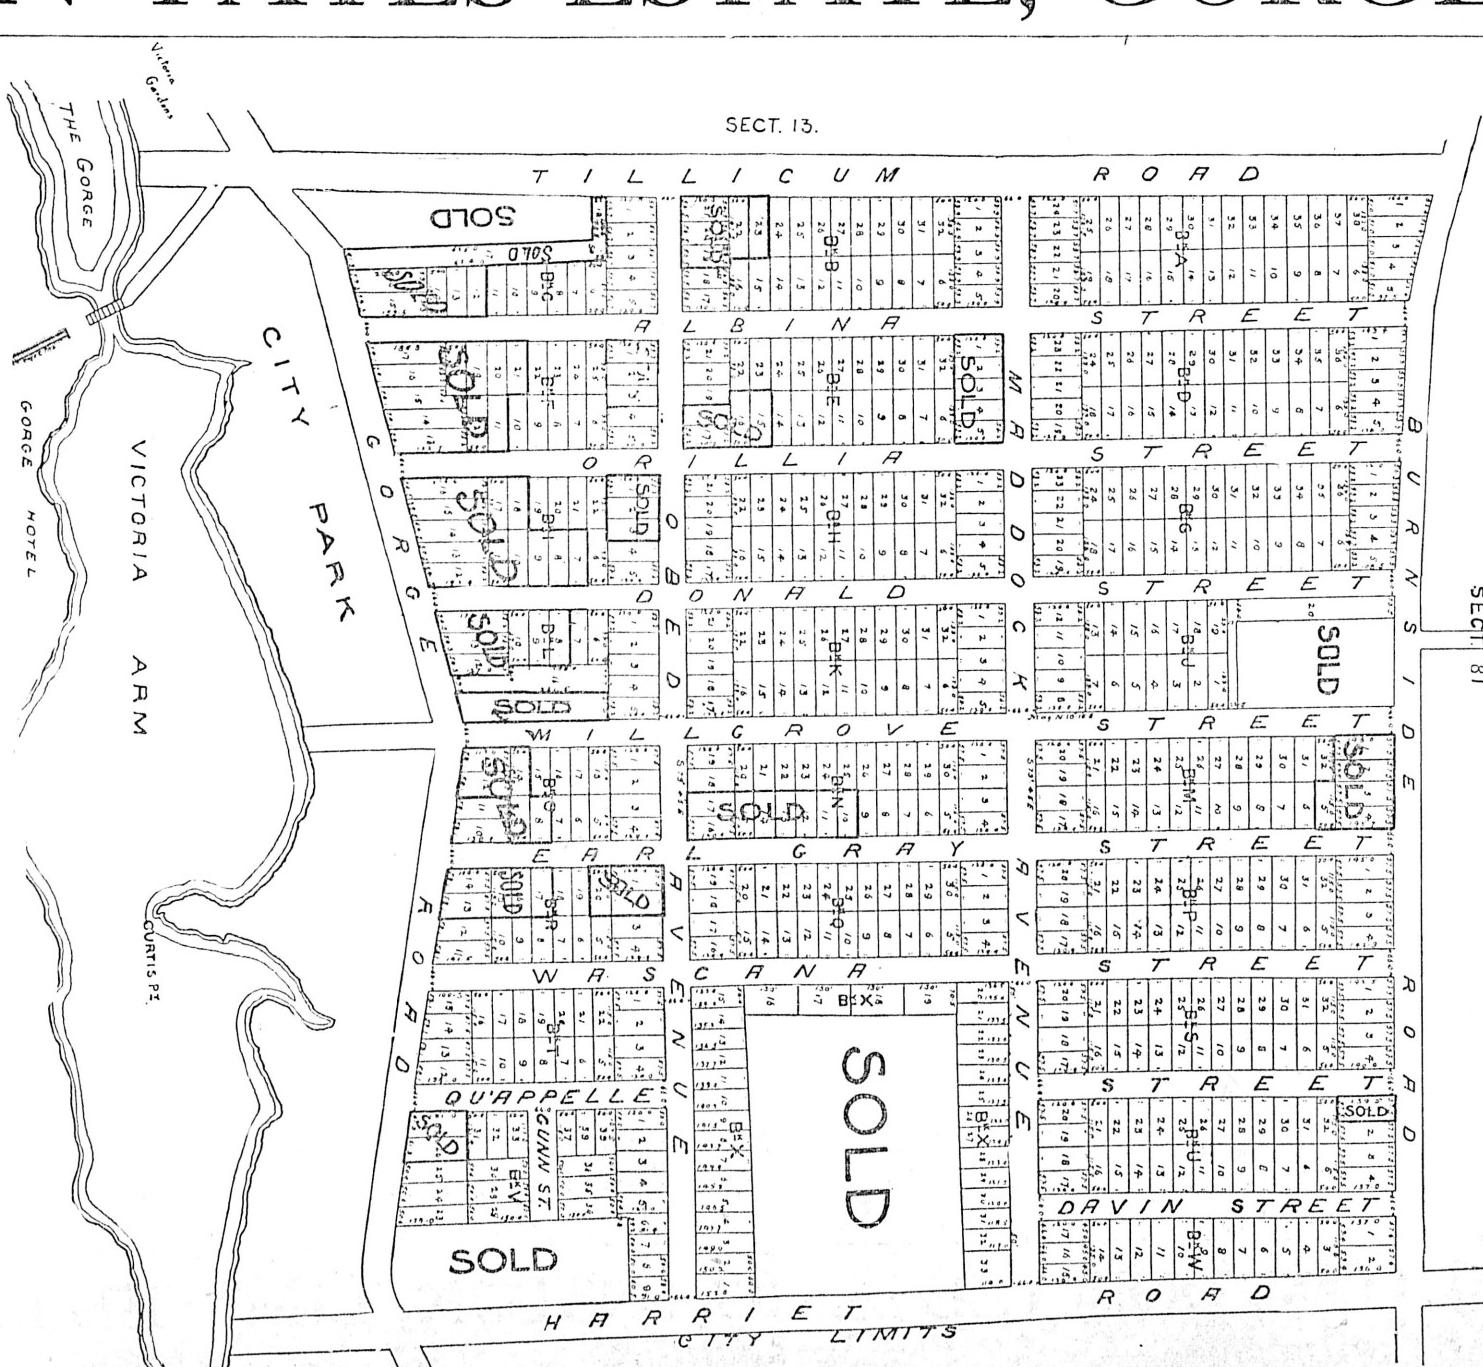

From the present date until the 26th of October Mr. Shepherd contemplates a period of activity. But he states that he is looking forward to the fight with pleasurable anticipation, confident in the loyalty of his supporters and assured that through the united effort of the Conservative party of the district he will be returned by a comfortable majority.

JAPANESE PRESS ON COLONIST'S INTERVIEW

Score Dr. Loenholm and W. T. Preston Impartially

An interview granted the Colonist some time ago by Dr. Loenholm, professor of law at Tokio university, has been commented upon at length in the Japanese press. The Japan Gazette, published at Yokohama, and the Japan Chronicle, published at Kobe, go into both Professor Loenholm and the Colonist to task for some of the statements made by the former. Some of the comments of these journals may be interesting to readers of the Colonist.

Thinks Remarks Ill-Timed

Referring to Dr. Loenholm's statement that the Japanese objected to intermarriage with other nations and that he (Dr. Loenholm) agreed with them in this, the Japan Gazette says:

"At this time when it is the desire of all thinkers to subordinate present racial antagonisms to the idea of racial approximation in the future, Dr. Loenholm's downright utterances are remarkable. He plainly says the points of difference between the races are so many and represent such a wide variance that the peoples cannot become intimate. Bishop Awdry's belief in a bright future of intermarriages is impossible of realization now. The Japanese have a very strong race feeling and this, in his opinion, is one of their best points, though it is difficult to see by what standard the possession of a strong race feeling is appraised as a good national point. It certainly makes for division and conflict, and it would seem that Dr. Loenholm in emphasizing this Japanese trait abroad was indifferent to that aspect of the case. Similarly he talks later about 'Military Japan,' in the course of his remarks saying:

"There are people who believe in eternal peace and general brotherhood, but the rise of Japan shows that this time is not so near as these people would have us believe. Lord Roberts was right when he said at Quebec that a country 'ought to be ready for any emergency.'

"At a time, it may be remarked again, when Japan is endeavoring to disabuse the world of the idea of her harboring military schemes these outspoken facts and figures by Dr. Loenholm are not likely to assist her much, and Japan might well ask to be saved from such friends. And yet it is difficult to traverse either of these statements quoted above except in regard to the policy of giving them out at this time. As to that point, too, the professor does not profess to be a diplomat and may believe with others that the truth of the old will prevail and its utterance be never really harmful, even if it prompt the statement that the Japanese are wedded to racial feeling and that fighting is to them a kind of religious duty. Nevertheless such voluntary statements by such an authority do not seem calculated to allay the anti-Japanese agitation on the Pacific coast."

Trade With Canada

The view expressed by Prof. Loenholm that trade between Canada and Japan was also susceptible of much expansion, is criticized by the Gazette. It says:

"The reason given by the worthy Professor for this pessimistic view was his conviction that neither country produced many products in demand by the other, and, in point, he spoke of rice and wheat being Canada's main article of export to Japan. Commissioner Preston, referring to this interview, bluntly accused the doctor of ignorance of commercial conditions in both countries, stating that he had been showing a large number of articles which could be exchanged between the two countries if business could be arranged. We have now been supplied with lists which contain some interesting facts for Canadians and Japanese alike. The lists showing what Canada might export to Japan is probably already published in the Dominion and need be only recapitulated here as follows:

"Articles exported from Canada to other countries and not at all from Canada to Japan".

"Asbestos, bark for tanning beans, barley, biscuits and bread, boots and shoes, copper, cartridges, etc., cordage, eggs, furs, flax, gypsum, grindstones, horses, hair, hides and skins, hops, hats and caps, aluminum, nickel, lard, leather, sole leather, malt, paints and varnishes, rubber boots and shoes, rubber belting and hose, sheep, sewing machines, tallow, tobacco, type-writers, whiskey, wine, wood, pulp."

Concerning Hearn

Dr. Loenholm's statement that Lafcadio Hearn could not speak Japanese, and so was unable to give a true picture of Japanese life, was also criticized as follows by the Gazette: "Those who knew Lafcadio Hearn will be surprised to read this statement. It is true that Hearn could not read Japanese, but he could speak it fairly well, and at the time he lived in Kobe he regularly spoke Japanese at home with his wife and family. Possibly Hearn did not understand the Japanese spoken by the University savant referred to, but, however that may be, it is very certain that Professor Loenholm is quite wrong in asserting that he knew nothing of Japanese. The learned Professor goes on to accuse Hearn of doing a 'great wrong' in giving Europe the idea he did of Japan:

"It is surprising that if the Japanese hate the present that is given of themselves and their country by Hearn, many of them have expressed themselves in very different terms. We cannot recall a single Japanese who has denounced Hearn's pictures of Japan and the Japanese, while we could name a good many who have praised him for accuracy and insight. His deficiency lay not in being acquainted with the Japanese language, but in his interpreting what he saw experienced according to the mood or sentiment of the moment. But an authority like Professor Chamberlain, who is certainly not second to Dr. Loenholm in his knowledge of Japanese ideographs, praises Hearn's work on Japan and gives it very high rank indeed."

Japanese Courts

The Japan Chronicle flays Dr. Loenholm for his statement that the Japanese courts, which are unfair to foreigners, are "slow, pedantic, and bureaucratic." Other statements in the interview are dealt with as follows:

"With regard to superficies, it has already proved to be a very inadequate substitute for landholding rights, and there can be no doubt that the refusal to grant these rights has prevented the investment of much foreign capital in Japan. As to the action of the Japanese Government in prohibiting the admission of Chinese laborers on the ground that 'they have a lower standard of living than the Japanese,' the statement is important, both because the fact has been denied and because the policy has clearly an important bearing on the immigration dispute between Japan on the one side and the United States and Canada on the other. If Japan protects her working classes against Chinese cheap labor, it is evident that she cannot complain if the United States and Canada take the same action against Japanese labor for similar reasons.

"As regards the remainder of the interview little criticism is called for. Dr. Loenholm justly scolds the idea that Japan ever had any intention of making war on America, and he points out that the United States being Japan's best customer, to do anything calculated to damage that trade would be a suicidal policy. 'While the United States could easily dispense with Japanese imports, Japan is not in a condition to close the trade with America.' We are inclined to agree with the learned Professor when, on the other hand, he fails to see any great possibilities for the trade between Japan and Canada. 'Japan is not going to change from a rice or a barley-eating nation' in order to encourage the import of wheat or flour, while the development of forestry in Japan will militate against the import of timber, and it is in accordance with the natural law of economics that the United States is Japan's best customer for certain of her products, she will sell her more food stuffs than a neighboring country having the same goods to sell but being a smaller buyer.

Neglects to Warn

"In view of this homily to Canadian merchants and manufacturers, it is remarkable that Mr. Preston makes no mention of what repeatedly happens in Japan on a falling market. Scarcely a month passes that the foreign newspapers do not contain reports of some case where a foreign merchant has been compelled to ask the assistance of the courts to enforce a contract which has been repudiated on some flimsy pretext or other. It must be borne in mind, moreover, that only a very small proportion of such cases come into court, for apart from the proverbial uncertainty of the law, it is well known that in very many cases to seek the enforcement of mercantile autonomy! What surprises us in the remarks of Mr. Preston to which we have called attention is the curious note of hostility to foreign merchants which the Canadian trade commissioner adopts. Nor does he take any steps, so far as the article or report in question is concerned, to warn the Canadian manufacturers that for various reasons it is well to exercise caution in dealing with Japanese direct importers, who, both from inexperience and lack of capital, are apt to read their contracts in the light of the rise and fall of markets. This omission is the more surprising seeing that the Canadian trade commissioner deals with the conditions that should govern the execution of Japanese contracts in Canada.

Riot Was with Japanese Sailors

Reported Shanghai Trouble Did Not Implicate British Tars

The steamer Empress of Japan which arrived here a few days ago brought further particulars, given by eye-witnesses, of the rioting by Japanese blue-jackets at Shanghai, and their attack on the police, who, though outnumbered ten to one, overcame the rioters, only by the most determined courage. The brawl began because a Japanese officer from the cruiser Tsushima struck a foreign woman standing in the doorway of a house with a stick. A Sikh constable arrested him but he escaped. Police Constable Norman captured and arrested the man, when a Japanese officer attacked the constable, and was also arrested while trying to release his comrade. The police were taking the two Japanese in through the Japanese quarter, when in answer to calls, sailors poured from all sides to the Woosung road. Stones and bottles were thrown at the police. The mob succeeded in releasing the two officers, and the police hurried to the Hongkew

AERIAL NAVY LEAGUE

Branch of League for Overhead Navy
Established in Berlin

Berlin, Sept. 26.—A Berlin branch of the "Aerial" navy league, which was founded at Mannheim in July in order to commemorate Count Zeppelin's achievements, has now been formed. The movement for providing Germany with an aerial navy enjoys the patronage of the Imperial Chancellor, Prince Bulow, the president, and the vice-president of the Reichstag, and the president of the Imperial bank. In view of the close organization of the new league, the promoters of the Aerial navy league are careful to protest that they can claim no good will of the Imperial government and that they are inspired by no Chauvinistic motives. They declare that the new league will promote purely pacific and scientific ends, although its business will be to maintain patriotic enthusiasm and to retain for Germany the advantage which she has gained in the sphere of aerial navigation.

The Crisis

"After setting out the position at length as regards Canada, Dr. Loenholm proceeds to deal with the financial crisis, which he considers was a natural result of the after events of the war, but he believes that normal conditions will soon be restored. He touches on Japanese politics, and explains that Mutsu Katsuura, who is a friend of his, 'is fat to wear to impose upon him, his burden which it would not be able to bear.' But, he says, 'the Japanese are intensely patriotic and ready to bear any burden if only their country retains its foremost position in the world.' We do not doubt the patriotism, but recent events have shown that the Japanese are not willing to bear enormous burdens for a militarist ideal."

Preston's Statements

The Chronicle also takes exception to several statements in an article on "Foreigners Losing Their Trade in Japan," contributed to the Colonist by Mr. W. T. R. Preston, Canadian Trade Commissioner in Japan. It says:

"Mr. Preston begins by saying that the reason given by the worthy Professor for this pessimistic view was his conviction that neither country produced many products in demand by the other, and, in point, he spoke of rice and wheat being Canada's main article of export to Japan. KEEPING SKIRTS CLEAR

General Dupont Deems it Best to Retire From Office on Republican National Committee

New York, Sept. 26.—Following many rumors on the subject which were afloat today here and in Washington, Chairman Hitchcock, of the Republican committee, announced that General T. Coleman Dupont, of Delaware, head of the bureau of campaign speakers of the national committee, has resigned as head of the bureau, and also as a member of the legislative committee of the national committee and that his resignation had been accepted. Chairman Hitchcock said: "Last Tuesday General Dupont tendered his resignation as a member of the legislative committee and as director of the speakers' bureau. Action on the resignation was deferred awaiting my arrival in New York. This morning General Dupont and I had a personal conference concerning the matter, in which he insisted upon the resignation being accepted, feeling that the suit of the government against the粉公司 with which he is connected might be employed by our opponents to the injury of the campaign to which he is so ardently devoted. His resignation therefore has been accepted."

WORLD'S GRAIN CROP ESTIMATE

Hungarian Minister's Prediction Viewed as Disappointing By Europe

NEWS FROM METROPOLIS

Epsom in Arms Because the New Asylum is Located There

London, Sept. 28.—While all the world is hoping and longing for bountiful harvests to relieve the commercial gloom, the forecast of the Hungarian minister of agriculture is not altogether reassuring. He estimates the world's grain crops of the current year at 1,644,358,000 quarters, which is certainly an increase upon last year's yield of 1,583,479,000 quarters, but not so large an increase as some people have been anticipating. But there is this to be noted, that although the Hungarian minister is regarded as an authority whose annual forecasts are always received with interest, he is by no means an infallible authority. Last year, for instance, he overestimated wheat, barley and maize, but underestimated rye and oats. It is with regard to wheat his present estimate is most disappointing and unconvincing. He takes the total production of wheat in 1907 at 391,911,000 quarters, and forecasts the total of 1908 at only 389,045,000 quarters—an actual decrease when the world is looking for a large increase. Other statisticians, however, do not confirm the Hungarian minister's figures for 1907. The "Statist," for instance, places the world's realized crop at 379,275,000 quarters, and estimates the crops of 1908 at 410,950,000 quarters. The estimates for this year in so far as the prospective harvests of India, Australasia and Argentina are concerned are largely speculative, because the grain in these countries will not be gathered for some months to come. Then the estimates include Persia, Syria, Japan, Chile and Mexico, in which countries also the figures are arbitrary. But in North America and in Europe the estimates have more precision, and are only subject to such qualification as the weather may impose during harvesting.

Now in a very large part of the United States, though not in the whole, in Canada, in the United Kingdom, and in Germany the harvest weather has been favorable. But last year's yield will not be realized in this country, though Germany will have an increase. France had very unfavorable weather in July and August, and will probably be about 10,000,000 quarters short of last year. Hungary, Russia, Bulgaria and Turkey will all have increases, but there are short crops in Italy, Spain and elsewhere. Altogether the European crops may not exceed 203,000,000 quarters, as against 207,485,000 quarters last year, which is to say that Europe will be an increased importer.

An American Exhibition

Next summer one of the London attractions will be an American exhibition.

The promoters hope it may draw visitors as successfully as the Franco-British exhibition. It cannot be so large, seeing the site is Earl's Court and not Shepherd's Bush, but that should be no disadvantage. On the contrary, it is only a visitor with the energy of the King of Spain who can "do" the Franco-British exhibition inside an hour. The ordinary mortal needs days for the pleasure, where as Earl's Court is as easily reached, and its extent is such as to enable the sightseer to visit most of the pavilions and spend some time in the beautiful gardens during one day. An influential committee, which includes the Lord Mayor and the Alderman who will be installed in the Mansion-House next year, has been formed and the co-operation of the leaders in industry in the United States has been obtained. The official name of the exhibition is rather cumbersome—"The Golden West and American Industries." Should the enterprise become popular, however, the Londoner will soon coin something more handy. It is twenty years since a really representative American exhibition was held in the capital. In the interval vast changes have come over the industries of both countries.

Distress for Unemployed

The latest official returns bear out statements that the coming winter is likely to bring with it in London an abnormal amount of distress through lack of employment. A month ago the pauper population had risen to 24,400 per 1,000, which represents an army of over 116,000. In July last year the percentage was only 25.9. The August figures are believed to be worse, and as the labor conditions show no sign of improvement the situation a few months hence may well cause anxiety, for a greater extent than in some other centres pauperism in London reflects the state of the labor market. As for the general question of unemployment, it is understood that representations will have to be made to the treasury very soon for an increase of the grant. It is early to talk about such a demand, but those who profess to know the needs of the distressed communities throughout the country say that matters already look so bad that the amount voted in the closing days of Parliament will be inadequate to meet the pressing necessities. The local government board has sanctioned a loan by one of the metropolitan authorities for the erection of a large infirmary, an undertaking which is being pushed forward with the special object of creating work in the building trade. In the last fortnight other loans have been sanctioned for important schemes in the provinces which are being started now rather than in the spring with the same immediate purpose.

Asylums at Epsom

Epsom, long famous for its Downs and its race horses, is up in arms because of the establishment of another insane asylum there, and Lord Rosebery has written a protest against it. Since the purchase by the London county council nine years ago of the Horton estate of a little over 1,000 acres, four great institutions for the accommodation of the lunatics of the metropolis have sprung up on the outskirts of Epsom. Their buildings are situated amid delightful surroundings, yet their presence is a source of constant irritation to the townspeople. Epsom sees their inmates parading daily in its pleasant lanes, and is constantly alarmed by the report from the care of his keepers, and is wondering aimlessly abroad. The royal commissioners on the care and control of the feeble-minded reported recently that the total number of mentally defective persons, including certified lunatics, in England and Wales may be estimated at 271,607, or

.83 per cent of the population. Five thousand three hundred and eighty-one lunatics are housed at Epsom.

School Banks a Failure

Savings banks in the London schools are a failure. According to the latest official return there were last year 463 banks in operation in 271 separate schools. A sum of $182,470 was paid in by 63,309 depositors, and $183,150 was withdrawn, the balance in hand of $91,419 at the end of the year being $480 more than that with which the year began. Although the banks are undoubtedly popular, there is some difference of opinion as to whether they fulfill the purpose with which they were originally established, which was to teach the children habits of thrift. The fact that as a rule, nearly all the money paid in is withdrawn in the course of the year is said by some critics to suggest that the banks are used for the convenience of the parents or in order that the children may save up small sums to spend in the holidays or at Christmas.

Modern Cleaning System

The question of house cleaning for fall brings to mind the carpet cleaning that must be done. There is no need to upset the house to have this done. Our does the work without trouble or fuss. It would be well to remember that this is no toy or improved carpet sweeper. It is a cleaner that cleans not only the carpet but the paper and floor underneath. Other makes do surface work, ours cleans thoroughly from the floor up. We would be glad to furnish estimates on request.

The Mail Order Department

People living out of the city should become acquainted with our mail order shopping system. We maintain a large and well-trained staff under expert supervision to attend to the wants of our mail order customers. You are sure of just the same treatment as though you were shopping personally. We issue a large and complete catalogue that we would be pleased to mail to you if you have not got one already.
